WHILE ONTARIO'S YOUNG MEN DIE

The almost unbelievable has happened.

The die has been cast.

Ontario's present Premier, Mr. Harry Nixon, has announced a general election for Wednesday, August 4th.

With Canadian boys poised for the invasion ready to meet the enemy in bitter battle; with our airmen nightly flying into the face of the fee; with our navy in daily struggie to win the Battle of the Atlantic, says The Globe and Mail, Mr. Nixon calls an election to fly a kite for his master at Ottawa. Mr. King.

There is no other excuse for an election. The people do not want one. A majority of the Nixon members of the Ontario Legislature voted for an extension for another year. The day of decision on the battlefield draws nigh. Yet here we have Mr. Nixon playing the game of the machine politicians at Ottaws. What a travesty!

What an offense against the mothers and fathers of the young men who are on the eve of offering their life's blood to defeat the Axis! And, while they fight, politicians at home play the same old political tricks, seeking to keep themselves deep in the patronage trought. Does the sacrifice of Canadians mean nothing? Is stump-speaking the only thing that matters at this time of peril to all free men:

While Ontario citizens are scraping up their last dollar to pay to win the war, Mr. Nixon calls an election that will cost Ontario electors $1,200,000. It will take $4,000 election officers when there is a terrific manpower shortage. It will take gasoline for the politicians to run all over the Province. It will take tires. It will mean hore expenditure by parties contesting the elections. And why? Just because the Ottawa strategists think this is a good time to test public opinion in Ontario.

And what of the fighting men overseas? Virtually, disfranchised as they are by Mr. Nixon's proxy rian, they will have no say in the Ontario election. They cannot even mention on the proxy the name of the party or the candidate they want to run their afficies Ontario. They are not even being told who the candidates are. And while those men are ready to secrifice their very limes for democracy they are denied the secret and free ballot, a right of every civilian of age in Cotario.

Ontario has had a proud part to play in Dominion affairs. Since Confederation this Province has contributed mightily to the growth and influence of the Dominion. Utder the War Measures Act, Ontario has been: shorn of its powers. But they will be in active use after the war. During the reconstruction period Untario will age: , have its full part.

To have a puppet Gove, nment in Ontario is unthinkable. Yet inat is what Mr. Nixon's is. The Cabinet Ministers at Ottawn are doing everything in their power to consolidate themselves by electing Mr. Nixon. Eight of those Ministers left their war work at Ottawn to assure Mr. Nixon the convention in Toronto as party leader. Now they want a snap election in Ontario to solidify their hold on this Province. We have opposed the calling of an eleccon at this time. We do so again. Without wre by Mr. Nixon and his Cabinet. We condemn this atternpt at election manipulation.

The people of Ontario, whose heart and soul are in the winning of the war, must ac- moors and its heather-Ireland's shamrock cept this challenge of Premier Nixon's.

The teneficiaries of the Ottawa-Nixon patronage : vstem will vote.

The pressure groups will vote.

mark high on their list the rate, Wednesday, future of Canada. August 4.

For on that day they can register their indignation against party trickery.

On that day they can cast their vote against those who play the Tammany Hall game while the nation's best offer their lives.

A TRIBUTE TO THE BRITISH EMPIRE

Ralph W. Carney, an industralist of Wichita, Kansas, gave an address before the Empire Club of Canada in Toronto last month, concluding with this stirring tribute to the British Empire:

Have you ever thought of what it really ia-this British Empire that you talk about hear about over the radio, read about in history, and that, in personification, you are God to save, in your famous song?

Well, let me, an American, respectfull salute you, bid you good-bye, and thank you for your attention here today, by telling you what I think it is

The British Empire is the "Sleeping Appeasing Giant" among nations, sudden transformed by bombs on Warsaw into Smashing Colossus and a terrible instrumen of righteous vengeance; the joy-rider turned Pilot of the R.C.A.F. and the R.A.F.; the jam orchestra become the fife and drum corps

It is Piccadilly Circus and the Savoy, suddenly warmed by the Spirit of Waterico and the defeat of the Spanish Armada; it is the might club, the hunting-lodge and the country club discarding its play clothes for uniform and jumpers, and the sign of the Red Cross upon its sleeve.

It is walts music and the rhumba, shifting to the blare of bugles; it is all the trivial ditties of Tin Pan Alley welling into "Oh Canada" and "God Save The King."

It is the soda clerk dying for democracy, the fat man on the golf links flinging away his clubs to become an air warden; the youth on a tennis court suddenly flashing through the air to bomb the Bismarck.

It's the cry of "Gimme, Gimme' changing to "Take all I have if you need it" and the slogens, "Every man for himself" and "What do I get out of it" become again, "England expects every man to do his duty."

It's the Mayfair playboy turned chute trooper; a grimy coal-town laborer leading a suicide aquadron to retake Singa pore; the village ne'er-do-well on a mine sweeper in a raging sea; the tap dancer stripped to the waist in a blazing gun turret; the ex-gangster finding his soul in the emulation of Air Marshals Bishop and Cleming and Flying Officer Beurling.

is a cocktail lounge transformed into a bar acks; a youth idling on a Newfoundland beach suddenly giving his life in defense of a lonely colonial outpost; it is laughter in western chuck-wagon, turning into a hourse shout of "Let 'em have it" from Ghurchill tank.

It's the c. h car fading into an armored car- the dem e sleeper into an ammunition train and the porter into Gunga Din; the Timid Soul 'eving down his life for a pai.

The street corner idler winning a citation for valor; the "boy who wasn't much use" stitting to the guns of a flaming, sinking cruiser, taking one last defient shot before a cold and pitiless occur closes over to strangle out his life.

It is the Three-hours-for-lunch fellow carrying a sandwich and the labor unions keeping their promise that there shall be no more strikes.

It is Clive of India, Kitchener of Khartoum, Wellington of Waterloo; Sir Douglas Haig, Wavell and Montgomery; Lord Nelson, Henry Morgan and Admirals Jeliecoe and Beatty; Gladstone, Disraeli and Edmund Burke; Henry VIII and Cremwell and William the Conqueror; the Archbishop of Canter-bury, and the Duke of Windsor; William Shakespeare, Robert Burns, Charles Dickens, and Browning and Sir Walter Scott; Queen Victoria and Lady Astor; Gracie Fields and Sir Harry Lander and Noel Coward; Robert Bruce and Sean O'Malley; and Lloyd George; the Welsh miner in the coal blackened bowels of the earth and his thunderous chorus, the sky-scraper scrub-woman and the chonel's

It's Westminster Abbey, Scotland's and her songs-Limehouse, the Lions of Trafalgar Square - Big Ben and the Tower of London - Nova Scotia's fishing banks, the mines of Kimberley, Australia's sheep and her fighting heart-New Zealand's lonesome bravery - the Canadian Rockies - Lake Louise and Banff-Montreal and Quebec and Then let all the good citizens of Ontario Ottawa and Toronto-and the great sublime

> It is Ortin of Australia, Mackensie King andsweet Queen Elizabeth-God truly save nem - and the unknown Soldier - the UnionJack and the Maple Leaf and the awful majestyof that deathless name-The British

What a proud people you should be! And it is every man, woman and child who buys a Victory Bond and stamp, supports the Rec Cross, giveshis blood for plasma, glowing in sacrifice that becomes pain as our wounded bear their pain so that, truly, "There will always be an England!"

It's self-interest become self-sacrificethe spirit of indifference become the Spirit of General Montgomery — the homestead turned kirk or cathedral because of the prayers of mothers there; the dingy town become a flaming symbol because it has given birth to heroes; and the human heart and soul be come torch and beacon to light the way to Liberty and Freedom for all of the oppresse peoples of the world.

That, is the British Empire!

That, too, is Conada, and it is for that, that we work, and pray, and fight! And wato whom we surrender up our sons!

Penned and Piliered

Same men refuse to worry over the wartime scarcity of washing machines. They are the lucky chaps who married one.

If a person is in a crowd of people all of whom are talking, he may have to shout pretty loud to make himself heard. In the excitement of modern life, a concern has to talk fairly loud through advertising, to get attention or make itself heard.

When public entertainers are applended by their audiences, they are stimulated and encouraged to do even better. It has the same effect when the home town folks praise the work done by the leaders of community no ements and organizations.

Frank Pairborn, Jr.

Who does not remember the early days of motoring or the early motoring days with their joys, rials, tribulations, expectations, glorifications and anticipations? What a pride there was in that early model, that which would travel at the "terrific" stone, humped into every rut, humped out again and then hiff-a tire was blown out. Possibly the story might be told by this pen but in reading the Christian Monitor it is so well told that in face of it no attempt will be made. Instead we shall let Miss Phyllis Fenner present the tale.

With no further explanation, apology or introduction we republish the lady's so very out sed

"Have you a quest of also, tipe strawberries We'll stop by and get them in a little while." It was my mother telephoning to Whitwoods, about 9 o'clock on a Sunday morning. The Fenners were going for a Sunday drive. They would have strawberies-large, luscious strember are to est "out of hant! on they rade alone.

Pather sprang up, lowered the spark lever until the motor ran more smoothly, climbed in, reclased his brake, and . . oh, hang! The motor coughed and stopped.

Once more he tried. The motor would not start. Perhaps a dirty spark plug. Up went the bood, out came the plug. A rag wiped it off, a scrutiny of the plug (as if he had known about cars all his life), and father put it back again. Again the cranking, And, finally, the inevitable shaking and rearing, the adjusting of the spark lever, and we were really ready to back out of the yard and start off for our Father pushed the foot gear, shifting into low, then into high, and off we went, chug, chug, chug, down the dusty village street, over "thank-youma'ems" at the village crosswalks, with much laughter from us children as we bounced into the air and down again. And father always inquired without once turning his eyes from his job of driving, "Everybody present?" And we all were.

The our looked like a buge bure thing, as think back on it, but it probably didn't look as queer to me then, for all cars were that way. No top, no windshield on your car. The horn, which stuck up on the driver's side (the right side in those days). had a large rubber built to make it hould.

The fastest we could go was 20 to 25 miles an hour. And going slow was almost as great a feet as going fast. Great was our excitement when later we had a cur that would actually move along behind a cow on a narrow road.

As we drave along, it began to get better and better, not just because the sun was hot and it was a summer's day, but because right under the driver's real true the engine. If anything needed fixing, which it often did, we all had to climb out lather took up the fleer-beard of the car to surve

Through the villages we drove, bumping along success, dusty, rutty roads, and suddenly, whoops there was another thank-you-ma'em in the m the street. Up we shot, and down again, amide laughter from us all. People came to their from doors. People stopped to look after us. For w were more of an novelty than an airplane today. Be sides, what a molec we did make as we went through

Father had long since discarded the goggles which were but and prevented his arring clearly. The gloves and custer he reteined, for they were as cessary. About of us was a farmer on his wagon. The road was narrow, the farmer was stubbern. He didn't hold with these new-fangled notions, automobile He wouldn't bidge an inch. and there we were our shiny new car in the dust of the farmer's wages forced us to go along as slowly as we could taking his dust . . . and his "men." The farmer turned off and our speed increased

- Hill! My, how steep it looked to go dow-"Goah, girls, brace your feet," shoulded little brother. Holding our breath, down we went. All safe, only my new hat blow off in the dirt. A muchole at the bottom. We suspected the farmers of digging thos mudholes to catch us so they could earn a couple of dollars hauling the car out of the mud on a Sunday afternoon. But we made it all right, recrieved my and, and west on.

The day were on. We came to the Hill. This time we had to go up. The engine pulled and pulled and got but about it, and then hesitated. Jam went the brakes. "File out." yelled father. Out we climb ed, all except father, and on up the hill went the car. not stopping the engine lest it would never go again. with us trudging in the dust behind. At the top. father waited for us. The engine was cooling off. In we combed and went on our way.

But hold on. Why aid we bump along so hard? The road suddenly seemed full of lumps. Could it be we had a flat tire? We stopped. Out climbed father. Yes, a flat tire. No garages to call. Out in the country with no houses in sight. And yet, in 16 minutes after we sat down beside the dusty road while father sixed the tire, a crowd had gethered from where we knew not. A growd to watch and

Out came a box of patcher. 4 patch was stuck over the hole, and the tube put back in the tare. If the tire castra was sinnaged, a "since" was tied over it. But the worst was yet to come. The tire had to be pumped by hand. No "free air." Ho engine pump. Mucie did it. And then on our way rejuting.

Many adventures we had. Horses we met beowne frightened, and we drow up alongside the road utile the driver drove his prancing steed past.

Driving along on the way home, night caught up with us. Father stopped, got out and lighted the kerosene light in the rear. Then, turning on comething on the running board of the car, he went to the front lights and lighted them with a match. A funny sensil reached us, the calcium carbide from the lights. The lights flickered. Sometimes they refused to work. Sometimes as we drove along suddeply the lights grew dim and great shadows seemed to corer the road. And then, of a sudden, they trould flare up bright again. Night driving was not fun, but then, we almost never met another our.

The leather seats of the car became damp with dew. Sometimes we attopped to add water or gazoline to the two tanks in the treat. Eventually we dreve into our own yard, tired and happy.

God Calls A Leader

Exedus 3:1-12. . . . iden Text-Exodus 3:10.

An introduction To The Lessen The bondage of the Israelites in Elgypt was prolonged during the reigns of several Pharoshs. He lead the people of Israel out of Egypt. Nearly all great men. whether in the secular or spiritual scene, have owed much to their mothers. The mother of Moses was a woman of remarkable faith and had imittled into the heart of Morns a love for his brethren and given him to feel that it was his responsibility to help them in their difficult position.

It is a great moment in the life of any man when he comes face to face with God, and is conscious of a commission from Him to undertake some particular line of service. To Moses, this call became the turning point of his life, had he refused to accept the trust committed to him, his life would have ended in failure. By responding to it, though after some hesitation, he became one of the outstanding scripture and of secular history. His name will be remembered with honor so long as the world lasts. and in eternity his reward is certain (Hobrews 11:23-26).

When God calls anyone to undertake any mission. He gives the needed grace and power, Augustine all said "God's commandments p God's enablings." The Lord yer asks anyone to undertake any work in his own strength. It in He who plans the work and who supplies all that is required to complete 't. When Are We At Our Best?

What do we mean by being "at our best"? I found stions that will help us to answer the question.

When we are dominating others? When we are trying to give another a good time? When we have responsibilities to carry through? When we are being depended upon and trusted?

When we are afraid of being criticized? When we can be quite and hear others talk? When we are monopolizing conversation?

When we are helping others?

Blushing Bicyclists

Riding a bicycle in a breeze with one hand while attempting to hold down a very brief skirt with the other is pretty hard on a girl. So one judges from the blushes that diffuse her countenance and the embarrassed glances at passers-by.

As an onlooker we have no objection to fluttering skirts, within reason, but we feel it is both dangerous and uncomfortable to steer

You might think it difficult to worship with the assertive splendours of such an ornithological window. On the contrary, it was helpful, and on that Sunday morning, with the dappled light within and the murmur of trees and birds without, one longed to sing the Benedicite, "O all ye works of the Lord, bless ye the Lord."

Here's A Pretty Kettle ...!

In Brown's Hardware store the other day we learned something

Did you ever notice that the new tea-kettles, when there are any, have only a stubby lip for pouring? Well, Mr. Brown informs us the reason for this is that all the long bent spouts, once a part of every self-respecting teakettle, were formerly imported from Germany, and there won't be any m - until the war is over. That is why you have to almost turn your nex conkettle on its head before it will pour. Now we know what the economists mean when they may we will have need of Germany after the war and must reinstate her as a trading nation. But what we can't get over in this: What is there about a long, bent teakettle spout that our manufacturers can't master?

It took a war -the one before this to convince us that we could make our own Christmas cards, good ones, too. Before that, nearly all bore the words, "Printed in Bayaria." Did it need another war to teach us how to make teakettle spouts?

WILL CLOSE

EVERY WEDNESDAY AFTERNOON AT TWO O'CLOCK

During July, August and September

We thank our many customers for their patronage and wish to continue to serve them, but with the shortage of labor as it is, we are compelled to close this one afternoon in the week, so that we may get some rest, in order to be able to give you one hundred per cent service on the other days of the week.

TWO-THEBOS of the total number of loans outstanding in Canada's Chartered Banks average less than $500 per loan.

ugh bank loans, Canada's Chartered Banks help Canadians to benefit themselves, their fellows and their country. Many of these loans are smallbut all contribute their share to the day-by-day activities of Canadian enterprise.

Some further facts about Canada's Banks:

Chartered Banks' loans related to agriculture as shown on the last official return to Parliament, potalled $340,118,475. This sum included loans to farmers. ranchers, fruit raisers and to grain dealers and grain exporters.

Every general manager soday beading a Chartered Bank entered the bank as a junior in some small branch.

Up to and including Ferenary, 1943, no fewer than 6803 men and 154 women bank employees had enlisted in the armed forces.

by more than three thousand brenches and sub-agencies maintained by the Chartered Senis to fecilitate the settion's business.
